▲ Little Matter of $11,000 Not Mentioned in His Report.

Weeks After He Fled.

Lawyer George F. Elliott, counsel to the Citisens' Committee, investigating the financial affairs of Gravesend, anounced this morning that the report of ohn Y. McKane, submitted to the Board leced the accounts of the town in ore muddled condition than before, and ettles beyond all doubt the question of McKane's defalcation.

"It is plain," said Mr. Elliott, "that he report tells absolutely nothing, and yould only confuse any one not familiar ith the methods of McKane and other fficials, who expended the taxpayers' oney for their own benefit. Any one an see that the report has been cooked ip, but in order to show how filmsy is is the Investigating Committee has placed an expert at work on it. "The real work of the expert is to get that information may be screened behind one peculiarity about the report is the fact that there are no balances or shortages in any account from last year. This fact surprised both myself and my clients, as any bookkeeper can see how ridiculous it is to submit a report without a balance or a shortage from the previous year."

When the report was submitted Mr. Elliott said his associate, Lawyer R. A. Breckinridge, at once began going through the figures to find a balance of $11,000 from last year or some mention of it.

It was then discovered by Mr. Breckin.

It was then discovered by Mr. Breckin-ridge that the report contained no men-tion of a balance or shortage in any of the many accounts kept by McKane. The $11,000 referred to by Mr. Elliott was drawn by McKane during the latter part of 1892. When the Town Board of Audit met, in 1893, McKane in his report accounted for the $11,000 simply as "disburse-ments." The auditors refused to pass the report unless the $11,000 was account-ed for.

ments." The auditors refused to pass the report unless the $11,000 was accounted for committee says that it has learned that McKane appropriated this money to his own use and could not account for its legitimate expenditure. He compelled the auditors to pass the report and placed the $11,000 to the credit of the police fund.

In the report McKane's son, George, submitted yesterday, there is no mention of this $11,000 possibly. Mr. Brecking been forgotten by those who knew of it. The $11,000, Mr. Brecking said, should have been shown as a balance to the credit of the police fund.

The Committee had hoped that McKane's report would perhaps throw some light upon the missing 195,00 of bonds which the ex-Supervisor is said to have disposed of and failed to account for. McKane's report makes no mention of the missing bonds.

It was announced to-day that an expert had begun work on the issue of all Gravesend bonds for the past three years. By this means it is hoped the missing bonds will be traced and the dates of their sale made public.

The few receipts for disbursements accompanying McKane's report have suggested several courses of inquiry to the Committee. One of these receipts is dated "March 9, 1894," two weeks after Sutherland, became a fugitive from justice, and is signed by Robert Sutherland, his brother. Other queer receipts are now being investigated by the Committee.

Accord'ing to McKane's report, his friends, O'Rourke and Dady, seem to have been the favored contractors, as a great deal of money heretofore missing is now accounted for by receipts from these contractors.

It is rumored that O'Rourke and Dady have given receipts to McKane for over

reat deal or money in the second of the seco

Many of the wives and children of the prisoners were present and asked the privilege of accompanying the men to the Penitentiary.

At 11 o'clock Sheriff Buttling had not yet arrived. Under Sheriff Thompson said that everything was in readiness to transfer the prisoners as soon as Sheriff Buttling arrived. Each carriage, he said, would be accompanied by a deputy sheriff or a keeper of the jail.

The men ready for transfer were:

A. S. Jamieson, eighteen months; M. Bysn, six months; Frederick E. Bader, five months; Henjamin Cohen, four months; William Lyons, four months; Victor Bausenwein, four months; John W. Murphy, three months, and Conrad Steubenbord, fr., three months.

The rest of the inspectors will remain in Raymond Street Jail and serve out their sentences of twenty-nine days.

Unlike the others, they will not have to don a striped suit or lose their har and mustachios. Those of the Gravesenders who went to the Penitentiary will be put to work at once.

Some of them may go into the tailoring shop where ex-Justice of the Peace R. V. B. Newton is learning the trade.

Col. A. E. Lamb denied this morning of the story that Justice Newton and tricked the prosecution by refusing to resign his office, as agreed to before sentence was passed.

"Mr. Voornees," said Col. Lamb, "called here several days ago and drew up a resignation for Newton to sign. The paper was approved by Mr. Rederick, as Newton's lawyer, and sent to the Penitentary to be signed.

"Latter I received a telephone message from Warden Hayes stating that he would not allow the man with the resignation to enter, as a strict quarantine had been declared by the health officials.

resignation to enter, as a strict quarantine had been declared by the health officials.

"Newton is ready to sign the paper when it is presented to him."

Town Clerk John L. Voorhees when seen to-day, said he had not yet received Newton's resignation as Police Justice.

He corroborated Col. Lamb's statement regarding the refusal of Warden Hayes to alow him in the Pententiary. The Citizens League, of Gravesend, has nominated O. F. Finnerty to succeed Newton, but as Newton has not resigned Mr. Voorhes will not allow the name to be printed on the ticket.

The Citizens' League failed to notify Gov. Flower of Newton's conviction and the office was not declared vacant.

The talk among officials and politicians in the Brocklyn Court-House to-day was largely confined to speculations on the wrok of the next Extraordinary Grand Jury to be called in May for further prosecution of Gravesend election frauds. It is said that the first work of the new Grand uJry will be to investigate Lawyer George W. Roderick's connection with the recent election at Gravesend and also to inquire into crimes alleged new Grand uJry will be to investigate Lawyer George W. Roderick's connection with the recent election at Gravesend and also to inquire into crimes alleged to have been committed by prominent Coney Island property-owners.

The inquiry is to be based on the information furnished by the election inspectors before their sentence.

In the case of Roderick, John W. Murphy in emphatic in denouncing his advice. Roderick was for years Mc-Kane's counsel, and drew up most of the affidavits presented at the contempt proceedings, which were claimed by Mc-Kane and others, at the recent trials, to contain false statements.

Murphy says that Roderick, during the fight Justice Gaynor was making to get at the registration books, advised the election inspectors to keep out of the way in order to avoid service of any legal papers. Witnesses have sworn on hie stand that they signed affidavits from Roderick, the contents of which they knew nothing about.

Raleigh found the doors of Dow's rooms locked, and Kelly climbed into the apartments through a window.

A strong odor of laudanum permeated the room. Mr. Dow was found on the bed, with a sponge saturated with the drug pressed closely to his nose. He was uncanscious and was removed to the Seney Hospital, where he died shortly after midnight. The surgeons say he must have swallowed some of the poison.

A letter found in his pockets, from his lawyer, John W. Konvalinka, stated that certain property which he owned was about to be sold under foreclosure. Dow had written a reply in which he said he couldn't stand the pressure any longer, and had resolved to take his life. He begged the police not to inform his relatives in England of the manner of his death, and asked that his body be cremated. He also left a will sealed up in an envelope which was not opened. Dow told a friend a few days ago that he had enough money to pay off the mortgage, but could not afford to use it for that purpose.
